Invite you to a guest lecture on

"Gandhi, King, and the I Have a Dream speech"

By

Dr. Michael Real

Professor of Communication and Culture, Royal Roads University, Victoria, B.C., Canada

On

Tuesday, 4th December 2012
1.00 p.m. – 2.00 p.m.

Dr. Michael Real was present at the world-famous speech by Dr. King in August of 1963 and will recount what it was like to experience it live, what it meant in context at the time, and what it means now as a part of North American history that includes an African-American U.S. president.

Dr. Real's books include Exploring Media Culture, Super Media, Mass-Mediated Culture, and most recently Bodies of Discourse. He has written scores of scholarly and general publications. His research topics include sports media, popular culture, film (especially the Hollywood Oscars), television, media events both national (Super Bowl) and international (Olympics), globalization, and social change. He has also directed local and international research projects, and hosted television and radio programs. His work focuses on media, culture, and social responsibility.

Venue: Indo-Canadian Studies Centre, Ranade Bhavan, Ground Floor, Kalina
