

About the University of Mumbai

The University of Mumbai (known earlier as University of Bombay) is one of the oldest and premier Universities in India. Consequent on "Wood's Education Dispatch", it was established in 1857.

The University of Mumbai acclaimed in 2001, a Five Star Status (by the National Assessment and Accreditation Council - NAAC). It has two Campuses with an area of 230 acres at Vidyanagari Campus, Santacruz, Mumbai and 13 acres at Ratnagiri Campus - Ratnagiri, 325 km South of Mumbai. As of today, it has about 600 affiliated Colleges, over 100 Institutions and 55 Post-graduate Departments of the University imparting education and training to over 6,50,000 students spread over five coastal Districts of Maharashtra, viz., Thane, Mumbai, Raigad, Ratnagiri and Sindhudurg.

About Ratnagiri Sub-Centre

Visualizing the need to cater academic and administrative services to the students of Konkan region, the University of Mumbai initiated an Administrative Sub-Centre at Ratnagiri on September 05, 1989. Initially the main purpose of the Sub-Centre was to decentralize some of the student services. Due to the constraint of space, expansion of student services as also introduction of courses could not be realized. Initially, the Sub-Centre was located in the premises of a B.Ed. College near Bus Stand. Later, it was shifted to Gogate-Joglekar College. A few Diploma Courses were initiated from here. The Academic activities of the Sub-Centre began when the Sub-Centre was shifted to Thibaw Palace and were inaugurated at the hands of Hon'ble Shri. Manohar Joshi, the then Chief Minister of Maharashtra on June 10, 1997. Beginning with the academic year 1997-98, all the student services and some need-based academic courses were offered by the University from the Sub-Centre. The University of Mumbai subsequently acquired 13 acres of land for Sub-Centre at Plot No. P-61, MIDC, Mirjole (Ratnagiri) and shifted its base into its own premises.
