CODE: PAPP E 302 Economic Policy of India

Objective: The purpose of this course is to introduce the student to the subtleties of economic policy making in India. The old tension between planning and markets has transmuted into the debate between the strengths and weaknesses of markets. Our point of entry is the macroeconomics and microeconomics modules covered earlier. Many of the issues are current and evolving and major recourse will have to be taken to journals like the Economic and Political Weekly. The references and other books are only suggestive.

6 Credits (60 Hours)

Module 1: Measuring Economic Activity in India (15 Hours)

- Data sources on the Indian Economy
- Growth rates, the effect of compounding on the standard of living
- Important ratios, sectoral aspects

Module 2: Closed Economy Policy (15 Hours)

- Inflation targeting and financial stability
- Fiscal Reforms: Goods & Services Tax, Direct Tax Code
- Employment and labour market policies

Module 3: Open Economy Policy (15 Hours)

- Exchange rate policies: capital flows and sterilized intervention
- Globalization and food security
- Banks and capital markets

Module 4 Agriculture and Industry and Services (15 Hours)

- Irrigation and institutions
- Technological change in agriculture
- Manufacturing- and/or Services-led growth

Module 5: The Market and the Plan (15 Hours)

- Land Reforms: procurement and prices
- The environment: price (dis)incentives versus quantity controls
- Cash versus Wages (MGNREGA)

CODE: PAPP E 401 Digital Governance and Public Policy

Internet has changed the way in which public policies are made. A significant proportion of social, economic and political activity across the world takes place on the internet. The Internet is intertwined with government and public services, with social life and social problems, and with the criminal world. Policymakers face challenges for which conventional regulatory mechanisms are inappropriate. In this course we aim to understand the fundamental changes that are taking place, and develop suitable policy responses.

6 Credits (60 Hours)

Module 1: Internet and Governance: National and Global

(15 Hour)

- Origin and nature of Internet, redefining traditional notion of politics.
- World Summit on the Information Society, Internet Governance Forum, Internet Corporation on Assigned Names and Numbers
- Go! policies: Administrative and regulatory.

Module 2: Governance online:

(15 Hour)

- Service delivery
- Communication, transparency
- Citizens participation

Module 3: Policy Issues:

(15 Hour)

- Digital divide
- Second Enclosure, Privatisation, IPR
- Big data, data security, data mining

Module 4: Challenges

(15 Hour)

- National security, surveillance, privacy and civil liberties.
- Cybercrime, cyberpolicing.
- Competition and Anti-trust, net neutrality, consumer protection.

CODE: PAPP E 402 Energy Policy of India

This paper will illustrate the role of various energy resources (especially mineral resources) in national policy planning and the perceived security concerns of external energy dependence and imports. The students will get an overview of the major policy initiatives of the Government of India to ensure access to energy. It will also enable them to contextualize privatization of energy and attempts to promote alternate sources of energy. They will understand the need to balance energy needs and protection of environment.

CODE: PAPP E 403 ETHICS AND PUBLIC POLICY

In the execution of public policy, it is impossible to do no harm to others; often, public policy requires the redistribution of resources, denial of rights or privileges, or promotion of one group at the expense of another. In many of these cases the policy makers have to choose between equally valid and compelling logic. This paper seeks to provide a compass for making such decisions. At the end of the course the students will be able to identify and define the normative parameters that are underpin the domestic and international policies.
